Dr. Kelley M. Skeff is the George DeForest Barnett Professor in the Department of Internal Medicine at Stanford University, and Co-Director of the Stanford Faculty Development Center for Medical Teachers (SFDC).

Dr. Skeff’s academic career has focused on methods to assist faculty and residents nationally and internationally to improve their teaching effectiveness. Dr. Kelley’s work led to the creation of the Stanford Faculty Development Center for Medical Teachers (SFDC). Since 1986, the SFDC has trained 384 faculty trainers from 160 institutions in 16 countries to become local, regional, and national resources for the improvement of medical education. These faculty have, in turn, assisted over 15,000 faculty and residents to improve their teaching effectiveness.
